Read, Play, Learn: Transforming Laundromats into Vibrant Learning Spaces

Book Harvest aims to expand their initiative Read, Play, Learn, which provides books and literacy programming at laundromats. This project will select two new locations at Regency Cleaners in Durham County to provide new learning spaces. The project addresses local needs by providing low-income children and families access to books that they can take home. Literacy activities are also available for families to participate in while at the laundromat.
